

A very warm invitation to an evening with the National Trust

Dear Avebury Parish Residents,

I would like to invite you to an evening of short presentations and open discussions with members of my team, and some of the key National Trust advisors who support us:

Thursday 19th May from 7pm to 9pm

St James Church Avebury

Refreshments will be provided

We would like to share what lies at the heart of the National Trust's work as a leading conservation charity, and some of the challenges facing us in respect of our work locally in managing this precious, complex and uniquely beautiful landscape. Members of my team will talk a little about their roles, their passions and what motivates them.

We would very much like to hear your thoughts and ideas about how we might work together more closely as neighbours. And we will of course be happy to answer any questions you may have, and to address any lingering concerns or worries.

I hope you will join us for this open evening of conversation, to build a closer and stronger relationship between the village community and those in the National Trust who care for Avebury and its surrounding sites for ever, for everyone.

RSVP

If you would like to join us, please contact Matt Claridge in the National Trust's Estate Office. You can do this in person, by email to matthew.claridge@nationaltrust.org.uk, or by phone on 01672-538031. We will ask for your name and address in the Parish, and a contact telephone number in case we need to change any arrangements.

We thank the Rector and the PCC for agreeing to the use of the parish church, and I and my team look forward to an evening sharing constructive thoughts and ideas.

With kind regards,

Jan Tomlin, General Manager for the National Trust
